TOO LONG, TOO FAR, TOO LOW

The day was April 21, 1918. It occurred during World War I. Baron Manfred von Richthofen led his flight of tri-planes to search for British observation aircraft. An engagement ensued between a flight of Sopwith Camels led by Canadian Royal Air Force pilot Captain Arthur Roy Brown. Brown's friend, Lt. Wilfred May, was a rookie on his first offensive patrol. May had been ordered to keep out of combat, but he couldn't resist. He jammed his guns and, defenseless, headed away from the battle. Richthofen spotted the lone plane and chose it for kill number 81. Brown observed the scene below him and dove to help his fellow airman, knowing that May was no match for Richthofen.

Read what happens next: "It was then, with Brown closing from behind, that Richthofen, usually a meticulous and disciplined fighter pilot, made a mistake and broke one of his own rules by following May too long, too far, and too low into enemy territory. Two miles behind the Allied lines, as Brown caught up with Richthofen and fired, the chase passed over machine gun nests of Australian Field Artillery." The debate continues over who fired the fatal shot that passed through Richthofen's torso. Ultimately it doesn't matter—whether hit from the air or the ground, the Red Baron was mortally wounded.

Richthofen was good. Probably overconfident. But he "broke one of his own rules." Maybe in his mind he was just stretching the rule a bit. Or he was distracted by something that appeared too good to be true. Whatever the case, he compromised his own standards, which led to his demise. For the Red Baron, the temptation of number 81 was too much.

The temptation always exists for you and for me to focus on the wrong things. Then we find ourselves flying too long, too far, and too low into enemy territory, into the bondage of sin, and ultimately to our own destruction (Romans 6:23; Matthew 7:13-14).

The right thing to do is to set our eyes on Jesus (Hebrews 12:2) and follow Him, for He will lead us to eternal Life in heaven.

—David A. Sargent

People are funny; they want the front of the bus, the middle of the road, and the back of the church.

Many people want to serve God, but only as advisors.

Ten Ways to Maintain a Healthy Level of Insanity

1. At Lunchtime, sit in your parked car with sunglasses on, and point a hair dryer at passing cars. See if they slow down.
2. Every time someone asks you to do something, ask if they want fries with that.
3. Put decaf in the coffee maker for three weeks. Once everyone has gotten over their caffeine addictions, switch to espresso.
4. In the memo field of all your checks, write, "For Smuggling Diamonds."
5. Finish all your sentences with "In accordance with the prophecy."
6. Order a "Diet Water" whenever you go out to eat—with a serious face.
7. Specify that your drive-through order is "To Go."
8. When the money comes out of the ATM, scream, "I Won!"
9. When leaving the zoo, start running toward the parking lot yelling, "Run for your lives—they're loose!"
10. Tell your children over dinner, "Due to the economy, we are going to have to let one of you go." —Austin Tucker

Just wanted to take a few minutes and tell you thank you for all the Birthday and Christmas cards. The wishes and thoughts warmed my day. I really appreciate the thoughts and kindness from all my friends.

Love and best wishes,
Lerline

A man scolded his son for being unruly. The boy got some of his clothes, his teddy bear and piggy bank and proudly announced, "I'm running away from home!" The father calmly decided to look at the matter logically. "What if you get hungry?" "Then I'll come home and eat!" bravely declared the boy. "And what if you run out of money?" "I'll come home and get some," replied the child. The man then made a final attempt, "What if your clothes get dirty?" "Then I'll come home and let mommy wash them," was the reply. The man shook his head and exclaimed, "This kid is not running away from home. He's going off to college!"

Announcements

Visitation Team Four will meet after evening service to get their assignments. Please see Jim and Dolores Pence.

Ben Mereness will be here on February 1st. He will be teaching the auditorium Bible Class and preach the morning service.

Jimmy Jurajda's class in 107 will be studying "Pillars of Faith: The Uniqueness of Christ."

There are sign-up sheets in the foyer for those who can help with the We Care Campaign in April.

Chad Foster, DPS Trooper and son of Mike & Dianna Foster, was shot in the leg in Channing by a felon. He is doing well.
