PRACTICING THE GODLEN RULE

I read recently about one of the most touching moments in sports I've heard about. It took place at a women's softball game last year. Central Washington and Western Oregon faced off against each other, with the winner to receive a bid to the NCAA's Division II playoffs.

Sara Tucholsky, a Western Oregon player, came to the plate in the second inning with the score tied 0-0 and two runners on base. Sara had never hit a home run in her lifetime. However, things were about to change. She connected on a pitch and hit the ball over the center field fence. Due to her excitement, she missed first base. So she stopped and turned to go back to the base. But when she made the sudden stop and turn, she collapsed to the ground having torn her ACL.

Her first base coach wanted to run out and help her, but if she touched Sara she would have been counted out. As Sara lay on the ground, umpires conferred and determined that the best thing to do was to allow Western Oregon to substitute a pinch hitter at first base (which would have canceled the home run).

The coach prepared to make the substitution when she heard a voice: "Excuse me, would it be OK if we carried her around and she touched each bag?" You see, in softball, a teammate can't touch a player while running the bases, but there's no rule that says the opponents can't touch her. So Mallory Holtman and Liz Wallace, two players on the opposing team, offered to carry Sara around the bases so that her home run would not be counted as a single. These two players gently picked up Sara, and carried her around the bases, allowing her to tap each base along the way. After reaching home plate, these two girls handed Sara off to her own teammates.

When asked later why she did it, Mallory Holtman said, "Honestly, it's one of those things that I hope anyone would do for me..." In other words, she was practicing the "Golden Rule": "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you."

There's not much I can add to a touching story like that. May it serve as an inspiration to find ways in your own life to look for people who could use a hand. When we are less concerned about "winning" than we are about helping others, we can truly begin to reflect Jesus Christ in our lives.

Therefore, whatever you want men to do for you, do also to them, for this the Law and the Prophets. (Matt 7:12).

BULLETIN DIGEST

—Jackson church of Christ
Jackson, MO

Dearest Church Family,
Our family thanks you ever so much for the cards, calls, prayers and most importantly the love you all have shown during my Dad's illness and death. We also express our gratitude to the sweet ladies who prepared the wonderful meal for us prior to the funeral.

Words seem so inadequate in comparison to your generosity and concern. Please know you are all appreciated more than words will ever express.

Love in Christ,
DeLisa & Fred Cox

We have never experienced such love as we have from the San Jacinto congregation. Our special thanks go out to the people involved in the special gifts for this week—7 gifts for each of us for 7 days. You have made this holiday season just a little brighter for us.

We also appreciate all the gifts, phone calls, visits, food, love and encouragement. I was asked by a friend, "Why?" My answer, "LOVE."

Thank God for hearts like yours that are thoughtful, kind and caring like His!

Doyle and Charlotte Miller

Bushland Road Church of Christ will be having a three day seminar April 24-26 on "The Awesome & Absolute Truth of the Bible." See the flyer in the foyer for details.

A preacher was telling the story about the death, burial and resurrection of Christ to a group of children. He asked, "What did Jesus say when he came forth from the grave?" He was trying to make the point that he didn't need to say anything, that his wondrous miracle said more than words could ever say. A young lady, however, insisted that she knew what Jesus said. The preacher finally asked her to tell him what Jesus said. She smiled widely and said, "Ta Dah!"

Momma went to the dentist to have her false teeth adjusted for the fifth time. She said they still didn't fit. "Well," said the dentist, "I'll do it again this time, but no more. There's no reason why these shouldn't fit your mouth easily."

"Who said anything about my mouth?" she answered. "They don't fit in the glass!"

Announcements

Visitation Team Three will need to see Kenneth Moore after evening service for their assignments.
