A CLOSER LOOK AT THE SALVATION ARMY

During the holiday season, Salvation Army bell ringers and their little red buckets are a familiar sight. Many people, even in the Lord's church, think the Salvation Army is just a charity. What many people are ignorant of, however, is that the Salvation Army, by its own admission, is in reality a full-fledged denomination. While their many good works in benevolence and some of their doctrines are certainly good and even admirable, we must nonetheless ask the question, "Should we, as New Testament Christians, support the Salvation Army? Should we toss our change into their little red buckets?" From an examination of their own literature, I am convinced the answer to these questions is a resounding "NO!"

The Salvation Army was co-founded in 1865 by William Booth and his wife Catherine in London, England. At first, the new denomination was known as "The Christian Mission," but in 1878, William Booth changed the name to "The Salvation Army" and assumed the title of General as its head. Its members then became known as Salvationists. From these facts alone, we can see that the Salvation Army is a human religious organization existing without Scriptural authority. It has a founder and head other than Jesus Christ; it wears names unknown to the Scriptures; it has origin and organization different from the true church of Christ revealed in the New Testament. One cannot consistently oppose denominationalism while contributing to the Salvation Army.

When one takes a closer look at their doctrines, we see many disturbing things about the teachings of the Salvation Army. For example, they refuse to administer baptism to their converts, thus perverting the gospel plan of salvation. They also refuse to serve the Lord's Supper to their members and use instrumental music in worship, thus perverting the worship of the church. They are led by one person, known as the General, and allow women into positions of leadership, thus perverting the organization of the church. They allow all divorced persons to remarry, thus encouraging many to live in adultery. They have a human creed in addition to the Scriptures, thus perverting the authority of the Scriptures.

Many other examples could be given, but surely these will suffice to make the point. The Bible says, "And have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather expose them" (Eph. 5:11). Brethren, what good does it do in the final analysis to help someone physically, but doom him spiritually? Yet that is just what the Salvation Army is unwittingly doing. Let us not support them, but rather expose and oppose their false doctrines while helping them to see the truth of the gospel.

Blonde?

As a trucker stops for a red light, a blonde catches up. She jumps out of her car, runs up to the truck, knocks on the door. The trucker lowers the window and she says: "Hi, my name is Heather, and you're losing some of your load." The trucker ignores her and proceeds down the street. When the truck stops at another red light, the girl catches up again. She jumps out of her car, runs up and knocks on the door. Again, the trucker lowers his window. As if they've never spoken, the blonde says brightly, "Hi, my name is Heather, and you're losing some of your load!" Shaking his head, the trucker ignores her again and continues down the street.

At the third red light, the same thing happens again, All out of breath, the blonde gets out of her car, runs up, knocks on the truck door. The trucker rolls down the window. Again she says, "Hi, my name is Heather, and you're losing some of you load!" When the light turns green, the trucker revs up and races to the next light. When he stops this time, he hurriedly gets out the truck, and runs back to the blonde. He knocks on her window, and after she lowers it, he says... "Hi, my name is Kevin. It's winter in Iowa and I'm driving the salt truck!"
